

Let's make babies

Take 4in (10cm) cuttings from me in early summer, removing any leaves from the bottom 1in (2.5cm) of the stem. Dab the base of the stem into rooting hormone and repot into well-drained compost. Cover with a cut plastic bottle to act as a cloche to keep humidity high.

Help me feel at home

Indoors, I can be displayed standing in a pot, in a hanging basket, or wandering up a support—I'm really flexible! Just position me in a spot where you can mist me regularly.

Help me flower

To keep me flowering, feed me with a high-potash liquid tomato feed every two or three weeks in spring and summer. You can also encourage my blooms by giving me a cool rest in winter, keeping me warm in the growing season, and pruning my stems after I flower.
