

I will calm you down

I love humidity and will be your best bathroom buddy, adding some fresh greenery to help you relax even more when you're having a soothing bath, and when you shower, you'll be giving me a much-appreciated mist.

Rescue me!

I love moisture, but if I do dry out and look very sick, don't worry—I can be resurrected. Just cut off my dead, dry leaves and put me on a windowsill with indirect sunlight, ensuring my soil stays nice and moist, and there is a fair chance I will sprout again.

Be mindful of me

If I'm in a room other than a nice steamy bathroom or kitchen, try to maintain high humidity by misting me frequently, or place me in a wet pebble tray, which will increase the humidity when the water evaporates.
