

KING BEGONIAS

Begonia rex cultivars

Words cannot describe the intricate merging of colors in the detailed pattern of this plant's foliage. You would be forgiven for thinking the leaves had been hand painted by an artist, but this is all nature's work and occurs with every new leaf that unfurls.

“Get obsessed with the beauty of my leaves.”

Help me thrive

POSITION

Keep in a warm place, not below 60°F (15°C), where you can maintain high humidity. They prefer a bright spot but out of direct sunlight.

POTTING

Use a free-draining potting mix and a large but shallow pot to allow the roots to spread. Divide and repot when it becomes root-bound.

GROWTH RATE

They vary greatly in size according to the cultivar but are usually 12–18in (30–50cm) in height, which they'll achieve in 2–3 years.

CARE

During the summer, they will grow actively, so water and feed regularly, making sure the compost stays moist. Keep drier in the winter.

I will cheer you up

My intricately patterned leaves are a tonic for the eyes. The fascination of my decoration can open your mind to the wonders of nature, putting a smile on your face. My hues of purple and red will also add some warmth to your home.

My dainty flowers are pink and even edible