

I bloom in many colors

I am available in a range of flower colors, from white and green to double pink shades, gold and orange, purple and white, and many more—you can build quite the multicolored collection.

Help me feel at home

In my natural habitat, I am an epiphyte, growing on other plants where I get plenty of free-flowing air. Please make me feel at home by placing me in a spot where I can get access to good airflow, such as a hallway, landing, or bathroom.

Get to know me

I have a big family—there are more than 1,000 species of me that can be found all around Asia, the Pacific Islands, and Australia. My family are native to many different habitats, from the exotic tropics to mountain forests and even dry desert climates.
