

CAPE JASMINE

Gardenia jasminoides

There is no doubt that this is one of the most beautifully fragrant indoor plants. The matte white flowers are so perfectly formed and contrast strikingly with the sea of glossy, emerald-green leaves they are nestled in. Still, their beauty cannot compare to the spirit-raising power of their scent.

I'll relax you

My scent is renowned for inducing relaxation, which is why gardenia essential oils are frequently used in the cosmetics industry in lotions, perfumes, and body washes. My fragrance fills your nose and heart with beauty and will soothe you as you unwind. It has even been extracted to treat depression and anxiety.

“Feel uplifted by my stunning fragrance.”

Help me thrive

POSITION

Grows well in cool, bright rooms. To flower, it needs a minimum day temperature of 70°F (21°C) and at least 60°F (16°C) at night.

POTTING

Repot into the next size up in spring when the roots fill the pot, as they flower better with congested roots. Use an ericaceous compost.

GROWTH RATE

When these plants are kept indoors, they can reach 6½ft (2m) tall and 3½ft (1m) wide. They are moderately fast growers.

CARE

Never let plants dry out or get waterlogged. Water them freely with rainwater when in growth, applying a balanced liquid fertilizer every 4 weeks.
