

My artistic leaves will inspire you

I am also commonly known as “freckle face,” due to my bold, patterned leaves, which often feature red, purple, and pink speckles. My spots commonly blend together to merge into big areas of color—just like a spray painting.

Look out for my flowers

I may surprise you with my flowers.

They bloom from spikes and are lavender colored and can mark the moment when I start approaching the end of my life—snip them off to preserve my energy.

Let's make babies

I am easy to propagate by sowing the seeds from my flowers, or you can take cuttings from my branches and pot them into a cactus mix, where they will readily root.
