

FOOD CROPS

The cereals millet and rice are grown widely across West Africa. Millet is common in the drier north, but where there is more rainfall, rice and root vegetables such as yams and cassava can be grown. Among the region's popular dishes are peanut stew and Jollof Rice, a Senegalese recipe that mixes rice with tomatoes, onions, and spices and is served with fried meat. Cassava and yams are also favorites, boiled and eaten with goat, chicken, or fish.

