

Eating leftovers

Vultures are large birds that are scavengers. They eat the remains of the prey left behind by other animals.

Water danger...

While zebra drink at the water hole, they look out for danger. Lions, cheetahs, and leopards will lurk nearby, hunting for prey.

The long trek

Many animals that live on the savanna, such as wildebeest, zebra, and gazelle, migrate at certain times of year. This means that they travel hundreds of miles seeking fresh grass for grazing.
