

What is a rain forest?

A rain forest (also called a jungle) is a place where lots of different types of tree grow. Tropical rain forests have hot, humid, rainy weather all year round. More than half of all plant and animal species live in rain forests such as the Amazon in Brazil.

Flying high.....

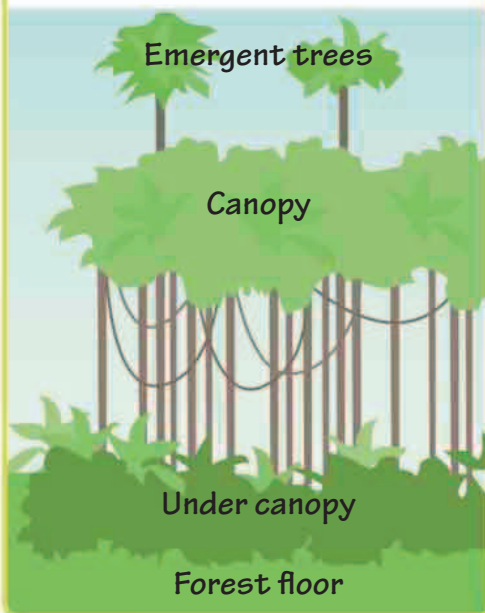

Colorful scarlet macaws, a kind of parrot, fly from tree to tree to feed on nuts and fruit.

Scarlet macaw

Toucan

Top to bottom

A rain forest has different layers where animals live or find food. "Emergent trees" grow up above the main canopy (tree tops). They get bright sunlight, while the forest floor doesn't get much light at all.

Piranha

Black caiman

Giant otter

Amazon River

Quick quiz

What do scarlet macaws feed on?

How does the emerald tree boa kill prey?

Do jaguars always stay on the forest floor?