

God Makes the World

In the very beginning, there was nothing but Emptiness, darkness, and lots of water. Then God said the word and the world was filled with light. He had made the first ever Day . . .

. . . but He saw that darkness was good too, so He kept it and called it Night.

On the second day, God divided up the water. He kept some to be the sea. The rest He put up in the sky and made Heaven to keep them apart.

On the third day, God put the seas in their proper places and dry land appeared between them. He told the earth to start growing trees, and grass, and plants.
