

And finally, He decided to make some people, who would be like Him, a man and a woman, to look after all the animals. God saw that the world He had made was good. On the seventh day He rested.

that creeps through the grass.