

Soon the ark was alive with animals.
It was full of hay, and oats, and food for the family too. The sky was getting very dark.
“Hurry up!” cried Noah to the waddling penguins.
As the tortoises crept up the gangplank, the first drops of rain began to fall.

