

The people who had laughed at Noah tried to escape the rising floodwater, but only the ark was lifted safely to the top of the swirling water, rising higher than the mountain tops.

The ark drifted for months until it bumped into some rocks. Slowly, the floodwaters sank down and then Noah saw the ark had settled on the high mountain tops of Ararat.

