

Jesus was taken to Pontius Pilate, the Governor of Judaea. "Are you the King of the Jews?" asked Pilate. "Yes, it is as you say," said Jesus.

Pilate said, "This man has done nothing wrong. He should not die." But the people shouted, "Crucify him!"

Pilate didn't want to be blamed for Jesus' death, but he chose to agree with the people's choice. Jesus was led away to his death.