

A princess came down to the river to bathe. She found the baby and took him back to the palace. The princess named the boy Moses and raised him as her own child.