

An illustration of a red boat on a green sea under a dark, rainy sky. The rain is depicted as numerous white lines falling from the top. The sea is a vibrant green with large, dark, circular shapes representing waves or raindrops. The boat is a simple red silhouette with a small cabin.

Then the rains came.

And the rain didn't just pitter
and patter; it poured and splattered,
and became a terrible flood.

There was ear-cracking thunder and blinding white lightning. So much rain fell that even mountains were covered.
Nothing survived except the animals
jam-packed onto Noah's watertight boat.

"Noah, his family, and the animals and birds went into the boat to escape the flood."

GENESIS 7