

“Store up grain in the good years to feed the people during the famine.” The king was so pleased with Joseph that he put him in charge of Egypt.

The famine spread far and wide.
Joseph’s father sent his sons to Egypt to bring back food.

Joseph’s brothers did not recognize him.
“Don’t you know your own brother?” asked Joseph.
His brothers were terrified, but Joseph forgave them and told them to bring his father to Egypt.

Jacob cried with happiness when he saw Joseph.
