

SQUIDs can detect changes in electromagnetic energy up to 100 billion times weaker than the energy needed to move the needle of a compass.

DC SQUID

A direct current SQUID uses two Josephson junctions in parallel in a superconducting loop. Each junction lets a small electric current through. The voltage across a junction is very sensitive to the magnetic field within the ring.