Using the dictionary

Read the information on these pages to get the most out of your dictionary. Most pages in the book look like this double page from the letter R section (below).

Getting directions

When you travel somewhere, there are usually signs to help point you in the right direction. It's the same when you are looking up words in this dictionary. Look at this double-page example.

Top left

This is the first headword on this page.

A new letter

This big "R" shows that you are starting the section of words that all begin with "R".

Top right

This is the last headword on this page.

Check your alphabet

The alphabet running down the edge of each page helps you to sort words into alphabetical order. The highlighted letter tells you which letter section you are in.

Picture it

There are pictures illustrating some of the words.
