

Aa animated

ADJECTIVE

An animated film is made using drawings, models, or pictures made on computers.

ankle

NOUN ankles

Your ankle is the joint between your leg and your foot.

anniversary

NOUN anniversaries

An anniversary is a date that you remember because something important happened then.

announce

VERB announces, announcing, announced

If you announce something, you say it aloud so that everyone can hear.

announcement (NOUN)

When you make an announcement, you announce something.

annoy

VERB annoys, annoying, annoyed

If something annoys you, it makes you feel angry.

Sometimes my little brother really annoys me!

annoying (ADJECTIVE)

Something that is annoying makes you feel angry. This game is really annoying!

annual

ADJECTIVE

An annual event happens once a year.

another

ADJECTIVE

1 Another means one more.

Would you like another cookie?

2 Another means a different one. Have you got another pen?

This one doesn't work.

answer

VERB answers, answering, answered

If you answer, you say something when someone has spoken to you. I asked how old he was, but he didn't answer.

announce

It's time to announce the winner.

ant

NOUN ants

An ant is a type of small insect that lives in very large groups.

antelope

NOUN antelopes

An antelope is an animal like a large deer that lives on the plains in Africa and Asia.

antenna

NOUN antennae

An antenna on an insect or snail is one of the two long, thin parts on its head that it uses for feeling and touching things.

antibiotic

NOUN antibiotics

An antibiotic is a medicine that cures an infection.

antihistamine

NOUN

An antihistamine is a drug that is used to stop an allergic reaction or to treat a cold.

antiseptic

NOUN antiseptics

An antiseptic is a chemical that kills germs.

anxious

ADJECTIVE

If you feel anxious, you feel worried or nervous.

Most people feel anxious before they go on stage.

any

ADJECTIVE

1 Any means some. Have you got any candy?

2 Any means whichever one you want. You can choose any toy in the store!

anybody

Anybody or anyone means any person at all. It's a secret, so don't tell anybody.

anything

Anything means a thing of any kind. There isn't anything to do!

apart

ADVERB

If things are apart, they are away from each other. I don't like being apart from my family.