

eczema

NOUN

Eczema is a dry, itchy skin condition.

edge

NOUN edges

The edge of something is the part that is not in the middle.

There were trees around the edge of the lake.

edit

VERB edits, editing, edited
When you edit something you have written, you read it and change some parts of it to make it better.

educate

VERB educates, educating, educated

To educate someone means to teach them important things such as reading and writing.

education (NOUN)

Education is the teaching that you get when you are at school.

eel

NOUN eels

An eel is a long, thin fish that looks like a snake and lives in rivers and the sea.

effect

NOUN effects

An effect is a change that something causes. Too much sun can have a harmful effect on your skin.

effort

NOUN

If you make an effort, you try hard.

egg

NOUN eggs

Some animals such as birds, fish, and reptiles lay eggs as a way of having babies. The babies grow inside the egg and then hatch out when they are ready to be born. We often cook and eat hen's eggs.

Eid-ul-Fitr

NOUN

Eid-ul-Fitr is the Muslim festival to celebrate the end of Ramadan.

either

ADJECTIVE

Either means one or the other.
I've got two pens. You can borrow either one.

elastic

NOUN

Elastic is a stretchy material.

elbow

NOUN elbows

Your elbow is the part in the middle of your arm, where you can bend your arm.

elect

VERB elects, electing, elected
When people elect someone, they choose them by voting for them.

election (NOUN)

An election is a time when people vote to choose someone for public office, such as when a country votes to choose or change a government.

electricity

NOUN

Electricity is a form of energy that we use for cooking and lighting, and to make machines work. Electricity is produced at a power station and carried to people's homes along cables and wires.

electric (ADJECTIVE)

Something that is electric uses electricity to work.

electronic

ADJECTIVE

An electronic machine has special small parts inside it that control how it works using electrical energy. Computers and televisions are electronic machines.

elephant

NOUN elephants

An elephant is a very large animal that lives in Asia and Africa. Elephants have long trunks, which they use to pick up their food. Many elephants have long, white tusks made of ivory.

Elephants have long trunks.

