Lisbon's trams

Bright yellow trams, known as remodelados, date back to the 1930s and still carry passengers around Lisbon's busy, and often hilly, streets.

Madeira Flower Festival

Every spring, the Flower Festival takes place on the Portuguese island of Madeira. People wear flowers and decorate floral floats in parades through the city of Funchal.

Record-breaking waves

Some of the biggest waves in the world break onto the beaches at Nazaré, on the coast west of Leiria. The annual surfing competitions held here are the ultimate test for surfers.

The waves can be as tall as 80 ft (24 m)—the record for the tallest wave ever surfed, in 2018.

Cristiano Ronaldo

This Portuguese striker from Madeira is one of the best-known soccer players in the world. He has won four European Golden Shoes and the coveted Ballon d'Or five times.

Lisbon is the westernmost capital in mainland Europe.

Lying alongside Spain in the Iberian Peninsula in Europe, Portugal has a long, windswept Atlantic coastline. In the 15th and 16th centuries, explorers set out from here to discover the unknown lands to the west, passing Cabo de São Vicente, Europe's southwesternmost point. More than 600 miles (1,000 km) away, in the Atlantic Ocean, lie the Portuguese islands of Madeira and the Azores.
