

Inuit people

The indigenous inhabitants of northern Canada, the Inuit are well adapted to the cold. They often use a sled, called a qamutiik, to travel on snow.

Baffin Bay

Québec Province is the largest Canadian province and is home to most French speakers in Canada.

Toronto towers

Canada's largest city sits on the banks of Lake Ontario with a stunning backdrop of high-rise buildings and skyscrapers.

Ice hockey

Canada's most popular sport is ice hockey. With 20 Olympic medals—13 of them gold—Canada is the most successful nation in this sport.

CN Tower stands 1,814 ft (553 m) tall and has an observation deck overlooking Toronto.

Maple leaf

Maple trees grow across Canada. The country produces 75 percent of the world's maple syrup, made from the tree sap. A maple leaf can be seen on the Canadian national flag.

Niagara Falls

With a drop of 167 ft (51 m), this group of three majestic waterfalls is located at the borders of Canada and the US. About 30 million tourists visit Niagara Falls every year.

Poutine

This dish of french fries covered in cheese curds and gravy started out in Québec Province and is now served throughout the country.

Geography: One-third is frozen land inside the Arctic Circle. Southern Canada has mountains, grasslands, forests, and lakes.

History: Canada was officially founded in 1867, although the Inuit people have inhabited it for about 5,000 years.

Culture: Despite the cold climate, Canadians love being in the great outdoors, playing sports, and going hiking.

Natural wonders: From the breathtaking Rocky Mountains to the dramatic Niagara Falls, Canada has spectacular scenery.

Wildlife: Canada is home to brown bears, polar bears, seals, caribou, wolves, wolverines, elk, and whales.

Food and drink: Most Canadians enjoy a typical Western diet of beef, chicken, fish, dairy products, and vegetables.