

World Nomad Games

To celebrate the ethnic sports of Central Asia, Kyrgyzstan has hosted the World Nomad Games every other year since 2014. Competitions include those in acrobatic archery.

Kyrgyzstan

This crisscross pattern shows the knot found at the center of every yurt roof.

Bishkek is one of the greenest cities in Central Asia with many trees and parks.

Lake Ala-Kul

This blue-green lake lies at a height of 11,580 ft (3,530 m) in the Terskey Alatau Mountains in eastern Kyrgyzstan.

Less than 8 percent of this mountainous country can be farmed. Many Kyrgyz people are horse and cattle herders, and they move the animals up to mountain pastures in summer, where they live in round tents called yurts.

- 77,201 sq miles (199,951 sq km)
- 5.9 million
- Bishkek
- Kyrgyz, Russian, other languages (+3)

Rudaki Park

A large, landscaped garden in the heart of Dushanbe, this park is named after the 9th-century Persian poet Rudaki, who was born in Tajikistan.

A statue of Rudaki stands in the middle of the park.

Aluminum nugget

Tajikistan has the largest aluminum manufacturing plant in Central Asia, but as it has no natural aluminum, it imports the raw ore. This metal is used in cans, foils, and utensils.

Tajikistan

Pamiri people

The Pamiri people are an ethnic group, most of whom live high in the Pamir Mountains of Tajikistan, which are known as the "roof of the world."

Many customs have been preserved in this mountainous country, such as festivals to celebrate the first flowers of spring. Tajikistan's Ismoil Somoni Peak is one of the highest peaks in Central Asia.

- 55,637 sq miles (144,100 sq km)
- 8.9 million
- Dushanbe
- Tajik, Uzbek, Russian

