

Mongolia

Asia

Sand and snow

The towering dunes of the Gobi Desert dwarf a herd of two-humped Bactrian camels, kept by nomadic Mongols for transportation, wool, milk, and meat.

Naadam festival

Every July, people all over Mongolia take part in the Naadam sporting festival. They compete in horse racing, wrestling, and archery.

In bkyukl bökh, a form of Mongolian wrestling, wrestlers win by forcing their opponent to the ground.

Bergenia flower

Despite its delicate appearance, this resilient flower thrives in Mongolia's low temperatures.

Nayramadlin Orgil
4,374 m (14,350 ft)

Horsehead fiddle

A carved horsehead tops the morin khuur—a traditional bowed instrument played for centuries.

Nomadic life

Around a million Mongolians live as traditional nomads. They set up temporary camps known as gers and travel on horseback to tend their herds.

- 📏 603,908 sq miles (1,564,116 sq km)
- 👤 3.2 million
- ★ Ulaanbaatar
- 🗣️ Khalkha Mongolian, other languages (+3)

Mongolia is a vast country in Central Asia with landscapes ranging from the snowcapped Altai Mountains in the west to the vast, cold Gobi Desert in the south.