Great Wall of China

A huge stone wall was built across China over many centuries to protect it from invaders. The Great Wall spans more than 13,000 miles (21,000 km).

Dragons—symbols of good luck—are made to dance through the streets.

Chinese New Year

China's most important festival marks the New Year and the coming of spring. This event is also celebrated in some other parts of Southeast Asia.

Mooncake

Often eaten during lunar celebrations in fall, this cake is a rich, sweet baked dessert.

Giant pandas

These endangered bears live in forested mountains in China, where they survive on a diet of bamboo plants. Fewer than a thousand adults exist in the wild.

Industry and trade

China is one of the largest and fastest-growing economies in the world. It manufactures most goods for export but imports goods, too.

More than one-fifth of the people in the world live in China, making it the most populated nation on Earth. Officially known as the People's Republic of China, it is also the world's third-largest country. China has a varied landscape of desert, mountains, and plains, but the majority of its inhabitants live in towns and big cities.
