

Major mosque

The center of Muslim worship in the capital city of Tunis is the Zitouna Mosque, with its 144 ft (44 m) minaret towering over the rooftops of the old part of the city.

- 📏 63,170 sq miles (163,610 sq km)
- 👤 11.7 million
- ★ Tunis
- 🗣️ Arabic, French

Although a small country that is largely desert, Tunisia also has rich farmland where cereal crops, olive trees, and fruits grow in abundance. Traditional foods and crafts are sold at colorful city markets called souks.

Tunisia

Roman mosaic

Tunisia was part of the Roman Empire and is full of relics, such as this owl mosaic found at El Jem.

Popular sport

Soccer is hugely popular in Tunisia. The boy wearing the striped shirt supports Club Africain, a top league team in Tunis.

Libya

The colors stand for Libya's main regions: Fezzan, Cyrenaica, and Tripolitania.

0 200 km
0 200 miles
(approximate scale)

Tuareg riders

Tuaregs are nomadic people who live in the Sahara Desert. Their traditions and folklore are kept alive, including this camel race through the desert dunes at the Ghat Festival.

Early art
In the Tadrart Acacus Mountains, near the city of Ghat, prehistoric rock art features wild animals, camels, and, seen here, human hunters.

- 📏 679,362 sq miles (1,759,540 sq km)
- 👤 6.9 million
- ★ Tripoli
- 🗣️ Arabic, Tuareg

Libya is dominated by the sands of the Sahara Desert. Early people created fine rock art inland some 10,000 years ago, and ancient Greek and Roman ruins dot the coast. The country is rich in oil and gas.

