

Angola

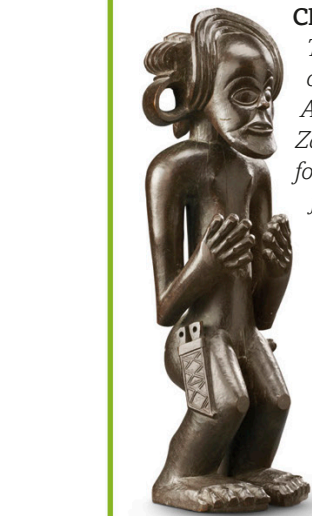

Luanda

Angola's largest city sits on the Atlantic coastline. This thriving port city is the trading center of the country.

Palácio de Ferro

Designed by French architect Gustave Eiffel, this building was originally constructed in Paris before being dismantled and rebuilt in Luanda in 1902. Its name means "Iron Palace."

Chokwe art

The Chokwe people of northeastern Angola, Congo, and Zambia are renowned for their ornately carved figurines, drums, and masks.

The bird has a bright red crest.

Red-crested turaco

Found only in the tropical forests of northern Angola, this colorful bird has a distinctive, shrill song.

0 150 km
0 150 miles
(approximate scale)

Angolan Carnival

The country's annual carnival marks the end of the period before Lent. Dancers and musicians perform in parades watched by crowds.

Temminck's ground pangolin

Pangolins are the world's only scaly mammals. This species is found throughout southern Africa.

- 481,354 sq miles (1,246,700 sq km)
- 32.5 million
- Luanda
- Portuguese, other languages (+3)

Angola is a large country rich in natural resources, including oil, minerals, and fertile farmland. Set back by many years of civil war, it is now one of the fastest-growing economies in Africa.