

Norway

Fjord view

Standing about 2,300 ft (700 m) above Lake Ringedalsvatnet, the cliff edge of Trolltunga offers a breathtaking view of the surrounding fjords.

0 100 km
0 100 miles
(approximate scale)

On the hunt

In Norway's forests, solitary wolverines hunt down large prey, including moose and goats.

Troll warning!

Mythical trolls are considered lucky in Norway. They can be seen on signs but are mostly found as souvenirs!

Sámi people

Thousands of indigenous Sámi people live in northern Norway, where they herd reindeer, fish, and farm the land.

Heddal Stave Church

In medieval times, many churches constructed of timber walls on wooden corner posts, known as staves, were built in Norway. Only 28 survive today. The church at Heddal is the largest.

Cross-country skiing

Snow covers much of Norway in winter, and cross-country skiing is popular for exercise, sport, and to get around.

- 📏 125,021 sq miles (323,802 sq km)
- 👤 5.5 million
- ★ Oslo
- 🗺️ Norwegian, Sámi

The dramatic landscape of Norway is a wilderness of icy glaciers and deep fjords (sea channels surrounded by cliffs). Two-thirds of the Norwegian landscape is covered by rugged mountains. About 50,000 tiny islands lie off its long, craggy coastline.