

South America

A vast chain of mountains runs the length of this continent. On its western side is the world's driest desert. On the east is the biggest rainforest.

Equator walkabout

The Equator is an imaginary line around Earth's middle. It would take you a month to walk across just the South American part of it!

