

World of history

History tells us the story of how people lived in the past. From the things they left behind, we can find out about their homes, food, clothes, work, and beliefs.

Early people

About 10,000 years ago, groups of people began to settle down in certain places. They started to farm the land and to raise animals for food.

Early farmers cut down the ripe wheat stalks with a sickle made from a sharp flint stone set in a wooden handle.

People learnt how to grow crops for food.

Powerful kings

Many great civilizations were ruled by powerful kings. In ancient Egypt, the kings were called pharaohs. They were so important that people worshipped them as gods.
