

The first cities

When people started growing their food, they were able to settle in one place. They began to build houses, villages, and cities. One of the first cities was Jericho in Jordan.

Hunters and gatherers

Early people hunted woolly mammoths, cave bears, reindeer, and other animals for food. They also collected fruit, nuts, and roots, and caught fish.

Early inventions

Here are some of the everyday things that early people used.

Dogs were first used for hunting about 10,000 years ago.

The first metal tools were made from copper about 10,000 years ago.

The first clay pots for storing water were made about 7,000 years ago.

Become an expert

92-93 Aztecs, Incas, and Mayas

The meat from a mammoth was enough to feed a family for a whole year.

Hunters killed the mammoth with wooden spears.

Mammoth hunting was dangerous work!