

In 1935, King George and Queen Mary celebrated 25 years on the throne. Flags were flown, bands played, and crowds cheered at the Jubilee parade from Buckingham Palace to St. Paul's Cathedral.

"I'M THREE, YOU ARE FOUR"

This is what Princess Elizabeth told her sister Princess Margaret when their grandfather George V died and their uncle became King Edward VIII. Edward had no children and so his younger brother Albert (Elizabeth's father) was his heir. Then came Elizabeth, and after her, Margaret.
