

Germ attack!

Germs are tiny little things that attack your body and can make you sick. Luckily your body has very special defenses to help you fight back.

Doctor

If you do get sick, a doctor can often give you medicine to help you get better.

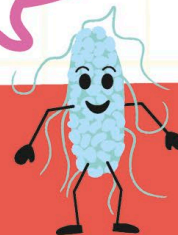

Viruses are the smallest type of germ. They give you colds and other diseases.

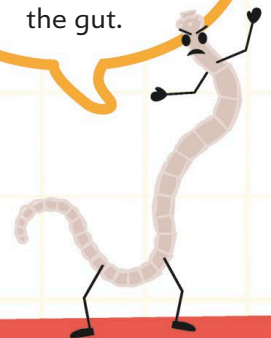

Bacteria are single-celled organisms. An upset tummy is often caused by bacteria you've eaten.

Your body is full of useful bacteria that live in your gut and break down food.

Parasites steal their food from another animal's body. Tapeworms live in the gut.

Types of germs

Not all germs are the same. There are many different types—some are bad for you, and others are helpful.
